

Meet a Counselor

Hi I'm Ankur Kumar

I'm one of the Counselors at SRJC! I'm from Los Angeles. Community college helped me complete my goal of earning a bachelor's degree at UCLA. I later completed my master's degree in Counseling at USC. I spent much of my career on the east coast, where I also became a spouse and a dad!

Why do I like Counseling?

I care about and respect students. As a younger me, first-generation student, navigating college amidst personal and family setbacks, I took longer than some peers, and made mistakes along the way. In that journey, I sharpened my mindset, shaped my environment, and realized it's okay to seek support through my campus to do well. I think these challenges, plus the resulting growth I had, gives me humility and makes me relatable to many students.

Ways I can help?

I will help plan courses towards earning a degree, certificate, transfer to earn a bachelor's degree or higher, or exploring classes that interest you. I can connect you with resources, and help you navigate college policies or procedures.
